

Kristine Marsh is the State Department's PD desk officer for Southern Europe (Cyprus, Greece, and Turkey) and the Caucasus (Armenia, Azerbaijan, and Georgia). Kristine most recently covered the press portfolio at the U.S. Embassy in Bishkek; her prior postings include at the U.S. Embassies in Ashgabat, Turkmenistan (econ), Budapest, Hungary (consular/pol rotation), and Dakar, Senegal (press). Prior to joining the Foreign Service, Kristine worked in the Refugee Section of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. She speaks Russian, French, Hungarian, and German. Kristine has a degree in Russian language and political science from the University of Arizona and studied abroad at St. Petersburg State University. She is also a State Department alumna, having participated as a high school exchange student in Germany, thanks to the State Department's Congress-Bundestag Youth Exchange Program (CBYX).

