

Pooja Chandra Pama, Entrepreneur, Humanitarian, Philanthropist

An Indian-born American entrepreneur, humanitarian and philanthropist, Pooja Chandra Pama is the founder and president of ACE Health Foundation, a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization.

Pooja is also the President of a conglomerate of enterprises that provide investment lending, health care services and management, global talent acquisition, and real estate procurement and management. Pooja's global affairs and philanthropic interests include education, the arts, health, environment, and humanitarian initiatives.

Pooja serves as Governor for DACOR, Inc (Diplomatic and Consular Officers Foundation) and Trustee for DACOR Bacon House Foundation, Member Board of Directors, American Women for International Understanding (AWIU), Chair, AWIU, Greater Washington, D.C. Chapter, and member, Director's Circle, Smithsonian American Art Museum.

Pooja resides in greater Washington, D.C. Metropolitan area.